

JOB AD

ARBORICULTURAL MANAGER

Salary: Competitive – dependent on relevant experience

Closing date to apply: 9am on Thursday, 20th January 2020

Trees for Cities is an independent charity that engages local people to plant and protect trees in towns and cities worldwide. We are the only charity working internationally to improve lives by planting urban trees. We cultivate lasting change in urban neighbourhoods; revitalising forgotten spaces, creating healthier environments and getting people excited about growing and eating healthy food.

We seek a highly-motivated, confident and experienced senior level Arboriculturalist to join our Projects Team.

This role is central to the Trees for Cities' core mission to deliver urban tree planting projects and the successful candidate will act as the Charity's main point of contact on arboricultural matters, providing steer and advice to both internal and external audiences. They would not only be responsible for delivering projects, but would also significantly support, identify, scope out and develop new opportunities, particularly at the programme level.

This will be a far-reaching role that will enable the right person to act as an advocate for the Charity's goals, and its strategic approach. Reporting to the Projects Director you will be responsible for managing day to day urban tree planting and maintenance programmes which cover street tree programmes, Urban Tree Challenge Fund, promoting Tree Cities of the World, and supporting high-profile urban forest projects.

This is a permanent role for a highly driven, solution-focused, well-connected individual to build upon our strong track record and it is an opportunity for someone to work closely with senior management to achieve this.

We seek someone with strong arboricultural background and proven experience in developing tree planting programmes, good practice in delivering, managing and maintaining environmental projects. They will have a passion for urban trees and healthy cities, together with strong organisational, inter-personal and communication skills.

This is a full-time position based in Kennington, London SE11.

How to apply

Click here to view full job description on our website. Download and complete the application form and submit by email to jobs@treesforcities.org with the subject heading 'Arboricultural Manager'.

If you are selected for interview you will normally be contacted within two weeks of the closing date. If you do not hear from us within this period then you should assume that, unfortunately, on this occasion you have been unsuccessful.

Trees for Cities is the first UK environmental organisation to have been awarded social value certification. Trees for Cities is an equal opportunities employer. Registered Charity No: 1032154.